

By focusing on the individual and by fostering the growth necessary to achieve potential, Keystone has evolved into a wide array of over 50 Community Homes that offer life-style options as diverse as the people we serve.

Each residence offers an environment structured in size, appearance and program to meet the specialized needs of its residents. The key to our approach is the word HOME. Each setting is a home where there is a mixture of caring and skill building in combination with support from clinical, vocational, medical and educational services.

To further enhance our continuum of care, we provide a comprehensive training program for staff development and our Safety, Quality and Risk Management departments ensure we are providing the highest quality standards in our programs and services.

We are licensed by the Pennsylvania Dept. of Public Welfare, Office of Developmental Programs 6400 regulations, as well as Children and Youth 3800 regulations, and Life Sharing through Family Living 6500 regulations.

We are a multi-state provider of residential services for individuals from many areas in the northeast including New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Virginia and Delaware.

The concept of community is important at Keystone Community Resources, Inc. It describes both our physical locations and an important element of our program for individuals with developmental disabilities.

By living, working, going to school, shopping and enjoying leisure activities in the community, Keystone residents experience life in ways not so very different from that experienced by others in the community.

Keystone is diverse in its programs and services and community based in its philosophy.
